Scotland's
Redress Scheme

Dear Alexander McNeil,

Your decision letter from Scotland's Redress Scheme

Thank you for applying to Scotland's Redress Scheme.

After carefully reviewing your application, Scotland's Redress Scheme is offering you a payment of £80,000.

In this envelope, you will find:

- a letter from your case worker with information about your payment offer from the Scottish Government
- a letter from Redress Scotland, explaining how they reached their decision about your application
- a list of financial contributors to Scotland's Redress Scheme and how this list relates to your legal rights
- a legal waiver for you to sign, if you choose to accept the payment offer
- information about your rights and how to request a review ('Summary of options')

In his statement to the Scottish Parliament when opening Scotland's Redress Scheme on 8 December 2021, the former Deputy First Minister, John Swinney, acknowledged that nothing can fully make up for the harm caused to children who were abused in care, or by our failure to take action sooner.

He paid tribute to the courage and determination of survivors and their families who spoke out about what had happened, both to seek justice but also to protect children today and in the future.

Today I want to apologise to you on his behalf. While we cannot undo the hurt and the injustices of the past, we hope the redress scheme goes some way to providing you with the recognition you have been heard.

Help and support

I have no doubt that applying for redress was difficult. You may feel the same way about receiving this letter. There is support available to you.

Your case worker can help with any questions or concerns you may have. They can also help direct you to further support.

Yours Sincerely,

G. Nixon

Your payment offer

Dear Alexander,

After careful consideration of your application to Scotland's Redress Scheme, you are being offered a payment of £80,000.

You can read about how Redress Scotland reached this decision in their letter included in this envelope.

Next steps

You can decide if you would like to:

- accept your payment offer
- request a review of your payment offer
- reject your payment offer

Before deciding what to do, you are strongly encouraged to:

- speak to your solicitor
- check the contributor list because this is the list of organisations the waiver applies to

Accepting your payment offer

If you want to accept the offer, you must sign the waiver and send it back to us using the freepost envelope.

This payment offer is valid for 6 months. This gives you time to consider if this is the right decision for you and to get legal advice.

If you need more time to consider the payment offer, please contact me. You can request an extension from Redress Scotland if you have a good reason.

For more information about accepting the payment offer, please read 'Information about the contributor list and waiver' included in this envelope.

Requesting a review of your payment offer

If you are unhappy with your payment offer, you can request that Redress Scotland review its decision about your application.

Scottish Government
Riaghaltas na h-Alba
gov.scot

You must request this review within 8 weeks of receiving this letter. If you need more time, please contact me for more information.

Rejecting your payment offer

If you want to reject your payment offer, please:

- confirm your decision in writing
- send it to us at Scotland's Redress Scheme, using the freepost envelope provided

You should do this within 6 months of receiving this letter. If we do not hear from you before then, we will assume you have rejected it and your payment offer will no longer be valid. If 6 months passes and there is a reason why you did not reply in time, please contact me.

Receiving your payment

If you accept your payment offer, the Scottish Government will send a payment to your bank account.

This payment will be a lump sum. However, if you would prefer to receive your payment in instalments, please let me know. I can help to arrange this.

If you would like advice or guidance about managing your money, you can contact Citizens Advice (citizensadvice.org.uk) or Money Matters (moneymattersweb.co.uk).

Please note that by accepting your payment offer, UK benefits you receive (with the current exception of Legal Aid for England, Wales and Northern Ireland) will not be reduced or stopped.

If you have any questions regarding the impact on any other benefits or require written confirmation of the UK benefits exempt under the scheme, please contact your case worker on the number at the end of this letter.

Getting legal advice

We strongly advise you to take legal advice about your payment offer and the waiver including the contributor list.

Solicitor's fees

Scotland's Redress Scheme will pay legal fees directly to your solicitor. This is available to all applicants and is not means tested.

You or your solicitor can find out more information on available fees by:

- contacting me for more information
- reading the statutory guidance on gov.scot/redress

You should check your solicitor will work for the fees available. They should request payment directly from Scotland's Redress Scheme. Information about the fees and payment is available on gov.scot/redress

Even though the fees are paid by Scotland's Redress Scheme, your solicitor is independent. They will work for you and not for Scotland's Redress Scheme.

29 June 2026

Dear Mr McNeil,

Thank you for completing your application for financial redress through Scotland's Redress Scheme. Redress Scotland received your application on 27 May 2026. We recognise that completing this application is difficult and upsetting for many survivors.

Redress Scotland acknowledges your experience whilst in care and the abuse you suffered from people who were trusted to look after and protect you. This letter confirms the outcome of your application, and the process Redress Scotland has followed to make a decision.

Redress payment
Redress Scotland has carefully considered the information in your application under the Redress for Survivors (Historical Child Abuse in Care) (Scotland) Act 2021.

Redress Scotland has decided that you are eligible for an Individually Assessed Payment.

Given the nature, severity, frequency and duration of the abuse you experienced, and the other factors set out in further detail below, Redress Scotland has made a decision that a Level 4 payment of £80,000 is appropriate.

The decision-making process

- The Scottish Ministers appoint the Redress Scotland members who are then selected for a panel to decide upon an application for a redress payment. You can find more information on our panel members' backgrounds at www.redress.scot.
- Three Redress Scotland panel members carefully considered all the information in your application.
- The panel members made their decision on 23 June 2026. The outcome of this decision is called a 'determination'.

Redress Scotland's decision follows. This contains detailed information related to your statement which you may find upsetting and re-traumatising. In this, we address your statement and give a summary of how this relates to redress. This is in line with Scottish Government best practice about communicating a decision.

Balgowan School
You described, how good behaviour permitted you to "ascend the board", and the higher you progressed, the more privileges you obtained. You were nearing qualification for a home visit, which the wardens were aware of. You told us that staff entered your room at night in the dark threatening to demote you on the board and subjected you to sexual abuse. If you had refused, this would have resulted in you not being able to have home visits.

You said when younger boys arrived, the wardens appeared to focus their attention on them. "Many of the boys underwent similar experiences. We all discussed it."

You told us, that staff members threatened that you would lose pocket money if you spoke about the abuse. You said, "Like so many of the boys I felt trapped."

You shared with us that you were never referred to by your name only "Boy 55".

In making our decision, we have considered a number of factors, including:

- you spent approximately 13 months in care
- you were aged between 13 to 14 years old at the time of your experiences
- you were abused by staff members responsible for your care and protection
- you suffered a combination of neglect, emotional, physical and sexual abuse
- you were unable to report incidents of abuse, because staff members had threatened you and you did not think you would be believed
- you lived in a day to day harsh punitive regime

Information used to make a decision
Redress Scotland panel members used your completed application form and statement, and the supporting information that you supplied, to make a decision about the abuse you experienced.

Requesting a review
You have the right to request a review of this decision. The process for requesting a review is in the Scottish Government's Summary of Options information within this pack. You cannot be offered a lower payment as a result of a review, and you can submit further information if you wish. Redress Scotland will ensure that a new panel meets to review the decision within 2 months of us receiving the request.

Information note – financial support

We understand that for some, receiving a sum of money can potentially be overwhelming.

There are a number of organisations that can provide general financial information. The support provided is high level and can help to support you with financial decision making.

This document provides you with information on a few organisations that provide financial information which you may find helpful.

Citizens Advice	Citizens Advice provide an online money map which gives information on matters such as types of bank accounts and budgeting. W: www.moneymap.scot
Money Helper	Money Helper provide a range of free financial information from advice on ISA's and savings to money troubles. W: www.moneyhelper.org.uk T: 0800 138 7777

This is not an exhaustive list of support organisations that are available. You may also find it helpful to speak with your bank who can provide you information on the products and services they have on offer to manage your finances.

Financial advice

Financial advice can only be provided by individuals and organisations regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority. The organisations listed above can give you general information on managing money, however they cannot give you specific advice on what to do with your money (such as how you could invest it).

If you feel you would like more in-depth financial advice you may find speaking to a financial adviser beneficial. Financial advisers look at your personal circumstances and your financial plans and can recommend products to help meet your needs.

Financial advisers will charge a fee and the amount varies depending on each financial adviser.

If you are interested in financial advice services, the Financial Conduct Authority provide a register of financial advisers on their website – www.register.fca.org.uk/s/

Information about the contributor list and waiver

Before you make a decision about your payment offer, you are strongly encouraged to:

- speak to your solicitor
- check the contributor list because this is the list of organisations the waiver applies to

If you want to accept the offer, you must sign the waiver and send it back to us using the freepost envelope.

Below, you will find more information about the contributor list and signing the legal waiver.

Why the contributor list is important

If you sign the waiver, you cannot take civil legal action related to abuse which is eligible under the redress scheme against any organisation named in the contributor list.

If an organisation is not listed on the contributor list, the waiver does not apply to them.

Organisations are included on the contributor list if they have agreed to make a financial contribution to Scotland's Redress Scheme. The contributor list included in this envelope is specific to the date your application decision was made by Redress Scotland. That means it may be different from the contributor list available on gov.scot/redress.

If an organisation is on the list you receive but does not make the contribution they had agreed, your waiver may stop applying to the extent that it relates to that organisation.) You would then have the right to start civil court action against that organisation. If that happens, we will write to you again.

Waiver

If you want to accept your payment offer, you must sign and return the waiver included in this envelope.

The waiver is the last document in this envelope and titled 'Redress For Survivors (Historical Child Abuse In Care) (Scotland) Act 2021 Waiver'.

Why the waiver is important

The waiver is a legal document. It has important consequences on your rights to raise or continue civil court action related to your abuse.

The waiver asks you to agree that you will not start or continue any civil court action about abuse that is:

- eligible under Scotland's Redress Scheme, and
- directed at the Scottish Ministers and organisations that financially contribute to the scheme and are on the contributor list you are sent

After you have signed and returned your waiver to the Scottish Government, you will not be able to have a future civil case against any of the organisations that are named in your contributor list for abuse which is eligible under the redress scheme (unless we have written to you to tell you that your waiver does not apply to that extent).

The Contributor List

This is the contributor list for your application. It is the correct list of contributors as of 23/06/2026, when Redress Scotland made its decision on your application. It may be different from the current version of the contributor list on gov.scot/redress.

This is the list of organisations that the waiver applies to.

If you sign the waiver included in this envelope, you will be not able to start or continue civil legal action against any of the organisations below in respect of abuse which is eligible under the redress scheme (unless we write to you in the future to tell you that your waiver does not apply to any particular organisation).

The Act requires the Scottish Ministers to name the date a contributor is added to the list, the financial contribution they are making or has agreed to make, note if a contributor is removed from the list, and include the date that this removal takes effect.

The purpose of the contributor list is to show the organisations that are eligible for inclusion on the waiver as a result of them making a fair and meaningful contribution to the redress scheme.

The waiver applies to the organisation and not to the individual care settings. If you are unsure of the organisation with responsibility for a particular care setting we will do our best to advise – contact 0808 196 1502.

Agree that:

(1) I have been given a list of relevant scheme contributors. "Relevant scheme contributors" are the scheme contributors on the contributor list on the date that it was determined by a panel of Redress Scotland that I am eligible for the redress payment to which this waiver relates ("the relevant date"). If a scheme contributor is later removed from the contributor list with retrospective effect, the question of whether they were on the list on the relevant date is to be based on the list as retrospectively amended. "Scheme contributor" and "contributor list" have the meanings set out in section 14(2) of the Act.
(2) I have been given the information specified in regulation 3 of the Redress for Survivors (Historical Child Abuse in Care) (Scotland) Act 2021 (Form and Content of Waiver etc.) Regulations 2021.

(3) If I have already commenced civil proceedings, I will abandon them to the extent that they are relevant civil proceedings (within the meaning of section 46(6) of the Act).

(4) Where I have already commenced relevant civil proceedings, I acknowledge that under section 50(2)(b) of the Act my right to a redress payment will not arise until the Scottish Ministers are satisfied that I have abandoned or will abandon such relevant civil proceedings, and that they will require a copy of the order of the court which dismisses the case or such other document as they may specify in order to be satisfied of this.

(5) I waive and forever discharge any claim or right to bring any relevant civil proceedings against relevant scheme contributors and the Scottish Ministers in any jurisdiction. This applies whether or not any right of action currently exists or may exist in future (whether under common law, statute, contract, or otherwise). It also applies whether such claims or rights are, or could be, known to me or in my contemplation at the time I sign this waiver. However, it does not prevent me from bringing future civil proceedings against a scheme contributor who has been removed from the contributor list with retrospective effect, with the result that they are no longer a relevant scheme contributor.
