Please read page 36 of “Help to apply” to find out more about what information you may want to include.

I was taken into care in April 2003. Throughout my time there, I experienced ongoing emotional abuse, neglect, and a complete lack of support. I was constantly labelled a liar and made to feel that my thoughts, feelings, and experiences did not matter. I was regularly pushed to the side and ignored.

On my very first night in the care home, a boy came into my room. He was forceful and tried to kiss me and touch me inappropriately. It was my first day there, and I was terrified. I was too frightened to tell the staff because I had only just arrived and already felt that no one would believe me. That experience left me feeling anxious from the very beginning of my placement. There were also several other boys who would torment us and follow us around. If this happened outside of the unit, the staff would often turn a blind eye rather than step in to protect us. I remember a group of girls from another care home who visited regularly. They decided they did not like me from the moment they met me, and every visit resulted in relentless bullying. I became emotionally distressed and dreaded the days they came because I knew I would be targeted. Despite the obvious impact this had on me, the staff failed to support me or protect my emotional wellbeing. There was another incident involving a taxi driver who behaved inappropriately towards me. When we arrived back at the care home, he lied to the carers and claimed that I had behaved inappropriately instead. I tried to explain what had really happened, but again I was dismissed. No one listened to my side of the story. Instead of protecting me or investigating my concerns, the carers believed him without question. This left me feeling powerless and confirmed my belief that nobody would listen to me or believe me when I reported something that had happened. The staff had preconceived opinions about the children in their care. If you had ever acted out or struggled with your behaviour, they assumed you were lying whenever you raised concerns. Instead of investigating or supporting us, they judged us based on labels they had already attached to us. There were occasions when some of the children would become violent, causing riots and putting everyone else at risk. Rather than protecting us, the staff would lock themselves in the staff room and leave us to fend for ourselves. This happened on multiple occasions. It felt as though they cared more about their own safety than the children they were responsible for. From my very first day in that placement, I felt neglected and unprotected. The constant emotional abuse, the failure to believe me, and the lack of care had a lasting impact on my life. My education suffered because I struggled to cope with everything I was experiencing and my behaviour deteriorated. I believe this was a consequence of the neglect I experienced. The effects of what happened to me have stayed with me ever since.
