During my time in this home, I experienced treatment that I can only describe as horrendous. The staff behaved in ways that were cruel and completely unacceptable, and the memories of what happened there have stayed with me throughout my life.

One of the most distressing things I witnessed was what was done to my sister. I watched as staff pulled her pants down and spanked her. Seeing that happen to someone I loved so deeply was devastating, and to this day it fills me with anger. My sister has since passed away, and I carry the weight of those memories knowing she is no longer here to speak for herself. It feels even more important, therefore, that her experience is acknowledged.

We were both subjected to force feeding, which was a deeply unpleasant and upsetting ordeal. I particularly remember an incident involving fish. It had been thrown under the table, and I was accused of doing it. I told them it was not me, but I was not believed, and I was force fed it regardless. We were also force fed tomatoes. The lasting impact of this has never left me — to this day I cannot eat tomatoes. What should have been a simple food has become something I associate entirely with that place and the way I was treated there.

The punishments did not stop there. If staff heard us talking amongst ourselves, we were made to stand at the end of our beds in our nightgowns. Standing there in the cold was both physically uncomfortable and deeply humiliating. We were children, and we were being treated as though we had no rights and no voice.

We were also denied access to the tuck shop, and when money was sent to us by our loved ones, we were told we were not allowed it. That money, sent by people who cared about us, was kept from us without explanation or justification. It felt like yet another way of stripping away any small comfort or sense of normality we might have had.

On top of everything else, we were made to go on extremely long walks that were simply too demanding for children of our age and size. We were forced to walk up massive hills, and I remember falling to my hands and knees from sheer exhaustion. I was so tired I could barely move, and yet the staff showed no concern whatsoever. They did not stop. They did not care. As if that were not enough, they would make us sing songs during these walks, even when I was so small and so worn out that I could barely put one foot in front of the other. It was humiliating and completely without compassion.

However, above everything else I experienced, it is what I witnessed happening to my sister that has affected me the most. That has never left me, and I know it never will. She is gone now, and I am left carrying those memories alone. I feel it is my duty to ensure that what we both went through is heard and acknowledged, for her sake as much as my own.
