I was attacked and bullied by other children and staff members. Day after day, for a year or two, it never stopped. I dreaded waking up each morning, knowing what awaited me. The fear was suffocating—it wrapped around my chest and squeezed until I couldn't breathe.

The anxiety crept into every corner of my life. My heart would race at the thought of facing them again. Sometimes the panic attacks came out of nowhere, crashing over me like waves I couldn't escape.

My hands would shake, my vision would blur, and I'd feel like I was drowning even though I was standing on solid ground.

The worst part wasn't just the physical attacks—it was the constant threat, the knowing that no one was protecting me. Even the staff members, the people who were supposed to keep me safe, were part of it.

I felt so alone, so small, so helpless. There was nowhere to hide, no one to turn to.

Those years left scars that went deeper than anything visible. They changed something fundamental inside me, teaching me that the world wasn't safe and that I couldn't trust the people who were supposed to care.
