During my time at the first place I was in, I know I was at Rothienorman Home. I was very young, but I do remember that my sister reported that they were drugging me at night to make sure I would go to sleep. She told our social worker at the time, and there should be a record of this. Hearing about this later in life was terrifying. Even though I was too young to fully understand what was happening at the time, knowing that this was done to me has always scared me and made me anxious.

The idea that adults responsible for my care might have been giving me something to make me sleep has stayed with me. It made me feel unsafe, even looking back now. I believe we did move after this was reported, but the fear and uncertainty from that time never really left me. It has affected how I feel about trust, safety, and the way I look back on my early childhood. Even now, as an adult, the thought of what happened still makes me uneasy, and it is something that has stayed with me throughout my life.

Rotheirnam i didnt like the breakfast and they tried to re-feed me that porridge for 3 days in a row no other meal and if i didnt eat i got sent to my room to starve.

During my time at Faulds Gate, I was there for about a year, and it was an awful experience. There was one boy who used to bully me constantly because I was so small. It made me feel vulnerable and frightened, and instead of stepping in to protect me, the staff often turned a blind eye. They knew what was happening, but most of the time they chose not to get involved, which made me feel even more alone.

There was one incident that has stayed with me ever since. That same boy tried to rape me. He was trying to pull down my trousers, and I remember feeling terrified and completely powerless. A member of staff walked in and stopped him, and I often think about what might have happened if they hadn't come in at that moment. Even though it was prevented, the fear and shock of that situation have never left me.

Looking back, the lack of protection from the adults who were supposed to keep me safe has had a lasting impact on me. I was just a child, and I needed support, but instead I was left to deal with bullying and a traumatic incident that no child should ever have to face. The experience at Faulds Gate has stayed with me emotionally, and it is something that has affected me throughout my life.

During my time with Mr and Mrs Stalker, things were awful. The way they treated me was completely different from how they treated their own children. They used to beat me up, slap me on the head, and send me to bed as a punishment. If they wanted to hit their own children, they wouldn't do it — instead, they would take it out on me. I was singled out and treated differently, and it made me feel like I didn't matter.

One incident has stayed with me for my whole life. Mr Stalker hit me so hard that I fell down. When I tried to get back up and used a chair to help myself, he stamped on my hand. The pain was so bad that we had to go to the hospital. Instead of telling the truth, they blamed it on me, saying I had slammed my hand in a door, which was never the case. I remember feeling scared and helpless, knowing that the adults responsible for me were lying to cover up what they had done.

My mum used to send me money sometimes, and even then I was treated unfairly. One time she sent money for me to get glasses. They bought me the cheapest pair they could find, but they bought their own children top of the range glasses. It was clear that I was treated like a second class citizen in their home. I wasn't given the same care, respect, or basic kindness that their children received.

All of this has had a lasting effect on me and my mental health. Being treated so differently, being hurt physically, and being made to feel less important than everyone else has stayed with me throughout my life. The emotional and physical abuse I experienced in that home shaped how I saw myself and how I felt about the world around me. It is something I have carried with me ever since.

During my time at Craig Ali, I would say that overall I had a relatively okay experience compared to some of the other places I had been. However, there was one serious problem that has stayed with me. One of the people in the home, who was older than me, tried to make me masturbate them. It was an extremely frightening situation, and I remember feeling confused, scared, and unsure of what to do. I was young, and I didn't fully understand what was happening, but I knew it was wrong and it made me feel unsafe.

After this happened, I went and spoke to someone about it. Thankfully, the person I told listened to me and took what I said seriously. They taught me some basic self defence so that I could protect myself if anything like that ever happened again. It was a lot to take in at that age — having to learn how to defend myself in a place that was supposed to keep me safe.

Not long after that, I actually had to use what I had been taught. I had to fight my way out of a potential sexual assault while I was there. Even though I managed to get away, the fear and panic I felt in that moment have stayed with me ever since. No child should ever have to defend themselves like that.

There were also other issues in the home. If you were considered “naughty,” the punishments could be harsh. Sometimes they would beat you with a bat, and other times they would stop your pocket money. These kinds of punishments created an environment where you were always on edge, never fully sure what might happen if you made a mistake or upset the wrong person.

Although parts of my time at Craig Ali were manageable, these incidents overshadowed a lot of my experience. They left a lasting emotional impact and contributed to the anxiety and mistrust I carried with me afterwards. It was another reminder that even in places that seemed better, I still wasn't fully protected.
