The next section asks you to write your statement of abuse.

Section 2: Your statement of abuse

Please refer to page 32 of the “Help to apply” guidance when filling in this form.

Please make sure that whatever way you provide your statement, you include all the information Redress Scotland needs to make a decision. You can find out more on page 35 of “Help to apply”.

You may find that writing this brings up feelings or memories. If you need support you can speak to a case worker who can refer you to further help:

- Telephone: 0808 175 0808 (freephone)
- International: +44 131 297 6500
Lines are open Monday to Thursday, from 10am to 4pm (except Scottish public holidays)
- Email: apply@redress-scheme.scot

Providing your statement of abuse

In Part 1, you will have provided information about any relevant care settings you were abused in.

In Part 3, you need to provide a statement about your abuse. You can choose how you want to provide your statement. You can complete Q1, Q2, Q3 and Q4. Or you can:

- submit a previous statement (for example, a copy of a statement given to the police)
- write your statement in another format that is better suited to you

How to complete this section

You may have been abused in one relevant care setting, or in several different ones.

For this part of the application form, please provide a statement about each care setting you were abused in.

For example, if you were abused in 3 relevant care settings, please provide 3 statements.

You can do this in any order that makes sense to you.

There are pages for 4 care settings included in this form. If you need more copies, you can:

- contact a case worker
- make a copy yourself
- print additional pages from mygov.scot/redress

Please remember:

- there are no wrong answers - if Redress Scotland needs more or different information, your case worker will get in touch with you and let you know
- do not worry about your spelling
- use as much or as little space as you need to give your information - you can continue on additional pages if you want to

Your statement for Care setting 1

Please read page 32 of the “Help to apply” guidance before you begin.

In Part 1, you will have already provided information about the care settings you were abused in. By providing this information here, your case worker can join together the name of the care setting with your statement of abuse.

Q1 | What is the name or location of the relevant care setting you were abused in?

(For example, the name of the care home, or the city or region where you lived in foster care or while boarded out).

Heather Blackie (Foster Care) - Tillyicoultury

Do not worry if you are uncertain about dates or time. Please provide your best estimate.

Q2 | When were you abused?
For example: a single date, an age, or an approximate time or time range.

1993-2000

You do not have to provide names, if you cannot remember or do not feel comfortable doing so. If you do provide a name it will be passed to Police Scotland.

Q3 | Who was involved in your abuse?
For example: a member of staff, a peer or someone outside the care setting.

Heather Blackie

The information you provide will be used by Redress Scotland to make a decision about your application. Redress Scotland will use the “Assessment framework” to help them do this, available on gov.scot. Please be aware that it contains graphic descriptions of abuse.

Q4 | On the next page, please provide as much information as you can about:

- the abuse you experienced while living in this care setting
- what life was like for you during this time
- how the people responsible for your care and welfare failed to carry out that duty (within or beyond your care setting)

You can continue on additional pages if you need to.

Please read page 36 of “Help to apply” to find out more about what information you may want to include.

Full Statement

I was only three years old when I was placed into foster care at Heather Blackie's house, but the memories have stayed with me in a way that feels far older than I was. From the beginning, I felt like an outsider in that home. Her children were treated as if they were somehow above me, more deserving of love, comfort, and patience. I was constantly reminded—sometimes directly, sometimes through the way they looked at me—that I didn't belong there. Heather would openly say she never planned on adopting me or my sister, as if we were burdens she had been forced to carry. She said horrible things, words that sank into me before I even understood what they meant. I was three, still wetting the bed because I had never been potty trained, but instead of helping me learn, she punished me. The nights are what I remember most vividly. She would drag me downstairs after I had an accident, the house cold and dark, and put me into a freezing bath in the middle of the night. I would be shivering, confused, and terrified, but she didn't stop there. She would sit me on a stool in the dark kitchen with the back door open, the cold air pouring in, my small body wet and exposed.

They told me stories about a “bad man” who was going to come and get me. Then they would turn off the lights to scare me, leaving me alone for hours. I didn’t understand why this was happening or what I had done wrong. I only knew that I was scared, cold, and completely alone. Sometimes they had parties while I was left like that. I could hear the laughter from the other room, and when they finally brought me out, it wasn’t to comfort me—it was to make me part of the entertainment. They would pass me around like a toy, placing me on their knees in front of strangers. Even at that age, something about it felt wrong. I didn’t have the words for it, but I knew I shouldn’t have been treated that way. They would stand me in front of a room full of people and laugh at me for wetting the bed, as if my humiliation was something to celebrate. The jokes they made were dark and confusing, especially the ones George would say. I didn’t understand them, but I understood the tone: I was the punchline.

Most days, I was left alone in my room for long stretches of time. Neglect became a normal part of my life. I learned to stay quiet, to shrink myself, to avoid drawing attention. When it came to food, things weren’t any easier. I struggled to eat, especially foods I didn’t like, but instead of helping me or trying to understand, they forced me to eat everything on my plate. They would push the food into my mouth even when it made me feel sick. Eating became something I feared rather than something comforting.

Looking back, I can see how deeply all of this shaped me. At the time, I didn’t know that what I was experiencing was abuse. I thought this was simply how life worked, that I was the problem, that I deserved the cold baths, the dark kitchen, the fear, the laughter at my expense. But I was just a child—one who needed care, patience, and safety. Instead, I was met with cruelty, neglect, and humiliation.

Those memories still sit with me, but telling the story in my own words helps me reclaim it. It reminds me that what happened was real, that it was wrong, and that none of it was my fault.
