When I was around six or seven years old, I was taken into Castle Craig Children's Home. I can't remember exactly why, but I think it was due to some behavioural issues I had at the time. I remember the long driveway leading up to a big house. When I arrived, I went in through the back, which was the main entrance. I met the staff and was then shown to my room, a dormitory that held about six to eight children. There were smaller rooms too, but those were for people who were preparing to leave soon. The bathrooms were shared between two dormitories. The home had a mix of staff working in day and night shifts. While I was there, I remember being unwell and taken to the sick bay. One of the male staff members came in to check on me. I was wide awake, just feeling poorly. He started putting his hands down my trousers and touched my penis. I told him to stop and tried to pull his hands away, but he didn't. He was much bigger than me, and I was scared he might hurt me if I resisted. He told me not to tell anyone about what happened. I was too frightened to say anything, and I have never spoken about this until now. That time at Castle Craig wasn't good for me. I've blocked a lot of it out. I didn't get any visitors during the week, though I did get home leave at weekends. Staff would take me home on Friday and pick me up again on Sunday. Sundays were the worst, I was terrified to go back in case that staff member hurt me again. I was too scared to tell my parents or anyone else about what had happened.

When I was about 14 or 15 years old, I was sent to Kibble through a children's panel. Most of the staff there were okay, but I didn't like the manager, Peter Gilmour. From the moment I arrived, he looked me up and down as if I was worthless. He was very strict and regimented in the way he treated us. During a trip to Iona, someone stole a cross and placed it in my locker. When it was found, I was taken into Peter Gilmour's office. He punched me full force in the face, and I fell to the ground with blood pouring from my mouth. He grabbed me by the shirt, slapped me several times, and threw me to the floor. I was so frightened and upset that I wet myself. Then he forced me to write a letter of apology to the shop from which the cross had been stolen. I kept telling him it wasn't me, but he didn't believe me or listen to what I said.
