In Part 1, you will have provided information about any relevant care settings you were abused in.

In Part 3, you need to provide a statement about your abuse. You can choose how you want to provide your statement. You can complete Q1, Q2, Q3 and Q4. Or you can:

- submit a previous statement (for example, a copy of a statement given to the police)
- write your statement in another format that is better suited to you

How to complete this section

You may have been abused in one relevant care setting, or in several different ones.

For this part of the application form, please provide a statement about each care setting you were abused in.

For example, if you were abused in 3 relevant care settings, please provide 3 statements.

You can do this in any order that makes sense to you.

There are pages for 4 care settings included in this form. If you need more copies, you can:

- contact a case worker
- make a copy yourself
- print additional pages from mygov.scot/redress

Please remember:

- there are no wrong answers - if Redress Scotland needs more or different information, your case worker will get in touch with you and let you know
- do not worry about your spelling
- use as much or as little space as you need to give your information - you can continue on additional pages if you want to

When I went into care at thirteen years old, I was still just a child trying to make sense of a world that already felt unstable. I hoped that being placed somewhere new might finally mean safety, or at least some kind of stability. Instead, I found myself surrounded by staff who seemed determined to break down whatever strength I had left. They would restrain us for the smallest things, sometimes for nothing at all, and the force they used made it clear they weren't interested in helping us calm down—they wanted control. They hit us, too. Not in ways that could be brushed off as accidents or misunderstandings, but in ways that made it obvious they didn't see us as children with feelings or fears. They bullied us with their words, calling us names that stuck in our minds long after the moment had passed. It wasn't just the physical actions that hurt—it was the constant message that we didn't matter, that we were problems instead of people.

There were days when they would leave us completely on our own, ignoring us as if we weren't even there. The neglect was almost as painful as the direct abuse. Being left alone in a place where you're supposed to be cared for makes you feel invisible, like your needs and your safety don't count. They would laugh at us, too—laugh at our pain, our confusion, our attempts to stand up for ourselves. Their laughter made everything feel even more humiliating, as if our suffering was entertainment.

What hurt the most was realising that the people who were meant to protect us didn't care at all. They didn't see frightened teenagers trying to survive—they saw easy targets. Looking back, I can see how deeply those experiences shaped me, but I can also see that none of it was my fault. I was a child in a system that failed me, and surviving that took a strength I didn't even know I had.
