I had a very hard upbringing. I had nothing and had to steal just to survive before I was taken into care.

My first memories of care are at Lasswade Assessment Centre in Edinburgh. From the moment I was placed there, I felt frightened and uncomfortable. Nothing was ever explained to me. I was a young boy, completely secluded and confused. No one from my family visited me, and staff reminded me of this daily, making it clear that no one cared about me or wanted me. This caused deep emotional pain and made me feel abandoned and worthless. I remember Mr Palmer, who made me feel very uncomfortable and was physically abusive towards me. One incident that stays with me is when some of the children were whistling. Because no one admitted to it, all of us were badly beaten, left black and blue, and some of us were pushed down the stairs. We were restrained very painfully and locked in our rooms. There were four children to one room, with no privacy or sense of safety. The fear and distress became so overwhelming that I tried to escape and fell from a top window.

Mr Gladstone he used to tap window and mum and dad was on social security and him and all the children would do this on a regular occurrence, it was horrible

Food was also used as a form of punishment. We were given no choice—whatever we were given, we had to eat. If we didn't, we were punished and called nasty names in front of other staff. I was constantly humiliated and degraded.

I was then placed in Dr Guthrie's Care Home, where the abuse became worse. We were forced to do ground picking, and I remember being made to pick Brussels sprouts in the middle of winter without gloves or a scarf. It was so cold that I couldn't feel my hands. This was cruel and frightening. At this home, children had to share rooms. Again, no one ever visited me. Staff and children knew I wasn't cared for, while other children received visitors. Because of this, I was singled out, treated differently, and regularly picked on by both staff and children. I was called "unwanted" and "lonely" and was told repeatedly that no one wanted me. This emotional abuse happened daily.

Physical punishment was common. Mrs Renick, the head teacher, frequently used a belt as punishment. I was terrified of her. She spoke to us as if we were disgusting and treated us like animals. On birthdays, instead of feeling happy, I remember sitting alone in my room feeling extremely upset and lonely.

The children were also very nasty to me, and this was because the staff behaved the same way. I remember a little boy in the care home—I still remember his face—who attempted to sexually assault me on more than one occasion. I was terrified. The staff did nothing to protect me and never stopped it. Because of this, I learned to stay quiet. I learned that if I spoke up, nothing would change. I was allowed to be bullied, beaten, and abused by other children without any protection.

Later, I was placed at Wellington Farm. This was the first time I felt a small sense of normality, but I was still bullied by other children. By this point, I had started to believe that being hit, bullied, and called names was normal, because it was all I had ever known.

Your statement for Care setting 4 continued

I was not there long before being moved to Tollcross for a couple of weeks, until I was considered old enough to be on my own. The impact of everything I experienced in care has been lifelong. I suffer from severe PTSD, anxiety, and a complete loss of trust in people. I struggle to communicate properly and to form safe relationships. I know that this has caused damage to my relationship with my son, which brings me deep pain and guilt. I constantly feel unwanted and unworthy, and most importantly, I never feel safe. The physical, emotional, and sexual abuse I suffered throughout my entire time in care has affected me for life and has made my life extremely difficult. What I went through has left lasting damage and has made my life feel like hell
