In Part 1, you will have provided information about any relevant care settings you were abused in.

In Part 3, you need to provide a statement about your abuse. You can choose how you want to provide your statement. You can complete Q1, Q2, Q3 and Q4. Or you can:

- submit a previous statement (for example, a copy of a statement given to the police)
- write your statement in another format that is better suited to you

How to complete this section

You may have been abused in one relevant care setting, or in several different ones.

For this part of the application form, please provide a statement about each care setting you were abused in.

For example, if you were abused in 3 relevant care settings, please provide 3 statements.

You can do this in any order that makes sense to you.

There are pages for 4 care settings included in this form. If you need more copies, you can:

- contact a case worker
- make a copy yourself
- print additional pages from mygov.scot/redress

Please remember:

- there are no wrong answers - if Redress Scotland needs more or different information, your case worker will get in touch with you and let you know
- do not worry about your spelling
- use as much or as little space as you need to give your information - you can continue on additional pages if you want to

I remember Colin and Dave because they were the only ones who treated me kindly. Their kindness stood out in a place where I often felt scared and alone. One of the first things that happened to me there was having my shoes taken away so I wouldn't run away. I had tried to run away so many times that eventually I ended up in the local papers after being missing for ten days. I was so desperate not to be recognised that I shaved my head so the police wouldn't know it was me. Thinking back, it hurts to realise how young I was and how desperate I felt to escape.

Because I had no shoes, I had to go to school barefoot. That brought even more bullying and humiliation. I already felt different, and being forced to walk into school like that made me feel completely exposed. At the home, they would restrain me for swearing or refusing to do things. I was very small at the time, and the people restraining me were grown men and women, much bigger and stronger than me. I remember the men being worse—their weight, their strength, and the way they held me down made me feel powerless and frightened.

I had my own room, but it was one of the smallest. It barely fit a bed and a table. That tiny room became the place where I spent most of my time, often locked in for whole days. When I first arrived, I was crying and overwhelmed, and instead of comforting me, some of the men mocked me. Their nastiness made me feel ashamed for even having emotions.

These experiences have stayed with me throughout my life. I have been on antidepressants for many years, and I receive disability benefits because of the long term impact on my mental health. Even eating became difficult for me. When I was stressed, I wouldn't eat, and I relied on drinking milk instead—until they stopped me from having that as well. Being locked in my room all day, cut off from comfort and connection, shaped the way I see myself and the world.

These memories are painful, but they are part of my truth. Speaking about them helps me understand the depth of their impact and the strength it has taken to keep going despite everything I went through.
