My earliest memories of being in care begin at First Place – Cardross Assessment Centre in Dumbarton. I was supposed to be there for just 21 days, but I ended up staying for 18 months. I was very young and extremely scared. I was picked up by the police and taken to a place I didn't know. I was woken in the morning in a locked room with no explanation. I was alone in a big, unfamiliar place, separated immediately from my sister. I felt confused, worried, and abandoned.

While I was there, I would often be locked in my room. Staff would take my clothes and shoes, leaving me in my pyjamas all day. If I protested, I was forcibly restrained, sometimes painfully, while staff would laugh at my distress. This experience had a devastating impact on me, and being trapped in that environment for 18 months caused lasting trauma.

Your statement for Care setting 2 continued

I was moved to foster care with a woman named Ann Spears. She was wonderful—a kind and caring person who made me feel loved and safe. She even wanted to adopt me, but I was never allowed to stay with her. I lived with her for about 18 months before being passed on to the Elliot family in the Johnstone area.

With the Elliot's, the physical abuse began immediately. Mr. Elliot's son provoked me, and when I argued back, Mr. Elliot picked me up by the throat, flung me around, and hit me regularly. He would also call me cruel names, and his son was allowed to pick on me. I was terrified whenever he shouted in my face. I stayed there for a few months, enduring this constant fear and abuse.

Next, I was placed with Jim and Mary Jane Kirkland in Paisley. The abuse continued and became sexual. Mr. Kirkland, a church minister, would take me swimming and inappropriately touch me each time. I was too scared to speak out because he was loud and intimidating. Mrs. Kirkland may not have known what was happening, but I often felt isolated and trapped. I was punished by being locked in my room, and I spent long periods secluded and alone, which left me feeling like a shell of myself. I was with them for approximately 18 months.

Around the age of 9, I was moved to John and Molly Harvey. Here, the abuse became cruel and degrading. I was starved, locked in my room, and humiliated daily. If I didn't eat breakfast, they would force me to eat it later for dinner or tea. They would laugh at me, tell me I was unwanted, and repeatedly say I would never go home. I was mentally and emotionally broken, constantly hungry and lonely. I stayed there for a few months before being moved again.

This period was hellish. Children ran riot, and staff, including Nigel Armstrong, an ex-police officer, and Margaret Burns, physically abused us. Mr. Armstrong would put my arms behind my back and throw me to the floor, leaving lasting damage. Margaret Burns would sit on us until we were breathless, screaming and crying. On weekends, we were forced to fight each other for the amusement of staff. They allowed smoking and drinking among children, creating a terrifying environment.

I was constantly humiliated. Staff would walk in while we were showering or using the toilet, stripping us of any dignity. The headmaster, Struen McCallum, was vicious—locking us in his room and throwing us around. Food was given inconsistently, and my weekend visits were often stopped or used against me. I endured five years of this constant physical, mental, and emotional abuse, leaving deep scars.

Finally, I was moved to Redshire Adolescent Unit in Kilburn, Ayrshire, where I stayed until I turned 16. Here, there was no active abuse, but the damage had already been done. I was left to my own devices, which gave me too much time to dwell on the trauma I had suffered for years.

The impact of this abuse continues to affect me to this day. I suffer from PTSD, severe anxiety, sleepless nights, and deep mistrust of others. I have struggled with drug use in the past to try and numb the pain. Even now, memories of my time in care are overwhelming, and they continue to affect my mental health and daily life. I am still deeply affected by the neglect, physical beatings, sexual abuse, and emotional torment I experienced at the hands of those who were supposed to care for me.

I have carried the pain, fear, and trauma from care into my adult life, and it has shaped who I am. I hope that by sharing my story, the full extent of the abuse I suffered is recognized, and that it is taken seriously in my claim for justice and redress.
