I was just a small, frightened child who needed love and protection. Instead, I got hell. The people who were meant to care for me - the staff members entrusted with vulnerable children - they tortured me. They beat me. They destroyed me piece by piece, day after day, year after year. I lived in absolute terror, never knowing when the next attack would come crashing down on me like a tidal wave of violence and cruelty. I remember every single moment. Every fist. Every word meant to break my spirit. Every time I cried and begged and nobody came to save me. I was abandoned in a nightmare with monsters wearing uniforms, and there was no escape. And God, the worst agony of all - I had to watch them do it to other children too. Beautiful, innocent little souls being ripped apart right in front of my eyes. Their screams are carved into my brain forever. I can still see their faces contorted in pain and terror. I wanted to protect them, to save them, but I couldn't even save myself. We were lambs being slaughtered, and nobody cared. Nobody stopped it. Nobody heard us. They murdered my childhood. They murdered my future. They murdered who I was supposed to become. Now I'm drowning. I'm drowning in alcohol because its the only thing that makes the pain bearable for even a moment. Every single day I wake up and the trauma is there, waiting for me like a monster under my bed that never left. The anxiety tears through me without warning - my heart races, I cant breathe, I'm back there, I'm that helpless child again being hurt and nobody is coming to help me. My mind is fractured. Broken beyond repair. I look in the mirror and I don't recognize myself anymore. I see a ghost. A shell. A survivor who's still dying inside. They stole everything from me - my innocence, my trust, my ability to feel safe in this world. They took a child full of hope and possibility and they tortured that child until there was nothing left but pain and fear and shame. I didn't just lose my childhood. I lost my entire life. And the cruellest part? They walked away unscathed while I'm left here, decades later, still bleeding from wounds that will never heal. I'm screaming and nobody hears me. I'm still that child, trapped and alone, and I don't know if Ill ever be free.
