Providing your statement of abuse

In Part 1, you will have provided information about any relevant care settings you were abused in.

In Part 3, you need to provide a statement about your abuse. You can choose how you want to provide your statement. You can complete Q1, Q2, Q3 and Q4. Or you can:

- submit a previous statement (for example, a copy of a statement given to the police)
- write your statement in another format that is better suited to you

How to complete this section

You may have been abused in one relevant care setting, or in several different ones.

For this part of the application form, please provide a statement about each care setting you were abused in.

For example, if you were abused in 3 relevant care settings, please provide 3 statements.

You can do this in any order that makes sense to you.

There are pages for 4 care settings included in this form. If you need more copies, you can:

- contact a case worker
- make a copy yourself
- print additional pages from mygov.scot/redress

Please remember:

- there are no wrong answers - if Redress Scotland needs more or different information, your case worker will get in touch with you and let you know
- do not worry about your spelling
- use as much or as little space as you need to give your information - you can continue on additional pages if you want to

When I think back to the years I spent in Eskdale, I remember an environment that felt cruel, confusing, and deeply unfair. I was there for around two to three years, and during that time the staff made me feel small, unwanted, and constantly on edge. Instead of offering support or understanding, they often treated me with hostility. They called me horrible names, spoke to me in ways no child should ever hear, and made me feel like I didn't belong.

One of the things that hurt the most was how they bullied me about my family. They teased me for not having certain family members around, as if that was something I chose or something I should be ashamed of. They even told me that my dad wasn't really my dad, even though he was. Hearing things like that from adults who were supposed to care for me was confusing and painful. It made me question myself and feel isolated in a place where I already felt alone.

The atmosphere in Eskdale was unpredictable. The staff seemed to enjoy picking on us, and their behaviour made it clear that they held all the power. When anyone in the home was considered "bad" or difficult, we were taken into a small room and given an injection. I never knew what the injection was, but it would put me to sleep almost instantly, like an anaesthetic. As a child, not understanding what was being put into my body was frightening. It made me feel powerless and completely at the mercy of people who didn't seem to care about my wellbeing.

Living in Eskdale for those years left a mark on me. I learned to stay quiet, to avoid drawing attention to myself, and to hide how I felt. I didn't have anyone to turn to or anyone who made me feel safe. The adults who were supposed to protect me instead made me feel vulnerable and alone.

Looking back now, I can see how wrong it all was. No child should be bullied, mocked, or given injections without explanation. Speaking about it now is a way of acknowledging what I went through and recognising the strength it took to survive an environment that never offered me the care I deserved.
