TRANSFER SUMMARY:

At the present moment the Reporter to the Children's Hearing is gathering grounds for referral in respect of [REDACTED] and Lisa. At the last hearing it was decided to wait until this had been done, then the whole case would be taken back to the panel and looked at again with a view to taking all the children into long term care. As regards co-operation with the social work department, I think reading through the file you will see Mr. and Mrs. Tarbett have no regard at all for any authoritative body and the possibility of them changing their minds and deciding to do what's best for their children's following plans, I think, to say the least is minimal.

27 10 80. Ben Minnie, social worker.

[REDACTED] Lisa appears to be well settled in the junior unit, and has benefited from separation of herself and [REDACTED] from [REDACTED]. Within school Lisa's attainments are rather poor but Mrs. [REDACTED] believes that this might well be due to her lack of experience with the type of work she was being tested with, but she was a likeable child, and easy to work with. In [REDACTED] and Lisa's case the were not required to attend the hearing and although Mr. Tarbett accepted all the grounds of referral alleging lack of parental care over a number of years, the hearing decided that because of the children's ages the matter should be referred to the Sheriff for proof, and this was explained to Mr. Tarbett. At this time the children were to be detained in Burnside House as per a Section 40 sub-section 7 Social Work (Scotland) Act, for a period of three weeks and application was made to the Sheriff under Section 42(7)

Review at Carolina House on Lisa and [REDACTED] Tarbett. Discussion which had taken place in the area regarding the possibility of assumption of parental rights was expanded upon and relayed to the staff at Carolina House, the infrequent visits and poor quality of those visits were also discussed.

[REDACTED] Lisa is seen as more emotionally stable, although her high incidence of bed-wetting was discussed. This problem seems to be tied in with her anxiety level and also with the frequency and quality of Mr. Tarbett's visiting. For a fuller expansion of the content of the discussion see the minutes under the reports section in both files. The main recommendation was that work commence on the assumption of parental rights following social workers return from annual leave in Mid-September.

Lisa's attention was distracted by another girl in the unit that she was playing with. Lisa wanted to show me a toy that she had in her bedroom so she took myself and [REDACTED] and two other girls to let me see this item. It turned out that this was just a ruse to get me into the room, and when I sat down on the bed all four kids jumped on top of me to have a play fight and left me rather crumpled. LATER. Visited Carolina House and in the company of [REDACTED] spoke to [REDACTED] and Lisa about the day's meeting. I went through, briefly, with [REDACTED] and Lisa their history as known to us over the last three or four years of coming in and out of care and their problems arising out of their parents frequent disputes. I explained to them that it was likely that they would ~~likely~~ be in care for quite some time, and that we did not think that they should be staying in Carolina House for a number of years and that perhaps fostering would be more suitable for them. [REDACTED] and Lisa were quiet whilst they were told our feelings but ended up by asking a bit about fostering which I tried to explain to them in terms which they could understand, and the issue seemed to hold no fears for them, indeed they seemed quite interested in what had been said. At the end of this discussion [REDACTED] asked if I could come to Carolina the following week for Christmas dinner which they were having on Tuesday 21. [REDACTED] said this would be O.K. and that she would make the arrangements. I therefore agreed that "I would come along and see [REDACTED] and Lisa for Christmas dinner on Tuesday. 30 1282 Visit to [redacted] and Lisa at Carolina House. I asked [redacted] and Lisa about their Christmas and asked particularly if they had gone to Granny's as arranged on Christmas day. Lisa informed me that in fact they had not gone to Granny's but the whole family had gone to their uncle's in Whitfield for Christmas dinner. Lisa was very happy that she had got what she had wanted for Christmas i.e. a pair of roller skates. [redacted]

[REDACTED] I told [REDACTED] and Lisa that I was going to be on holiday from the following week until the 9 January, and that I would see them at their children's hearing on the 12 January. This information was also passed on to Carolina staff.

Fairly positive panel with discussions centering around the progress of both [REDACTED] and Lisa's progress made in Carolina House. Mr. Tarbett was questioned by the panel members about his contact with [REDACTED] and Lisa and the panel were not satisfied with the answers they got from Mr. Tarbett. They informed Mr. Tarbett that his frequency of visiting had been poor and that he needed to improve on that. Mr. Tarbett

LATER - Evening visit to Carolina House. Had tea with [REDACTED] and Lisa. They did not talk very much about the children's hearing and I got the impression that although they desperately wanted to go and see what went on the thing had been a bit of an anti-climax for them, perhaps understandably. [REDACTED] and Lisa both asked about [REDACTED] and said that they had not seen him for a while. I informed them that I would make arrangements to take them to see [REDACTED] quite soon. They were quite delighted about this. I informed Carolina staff of [REDACTED] and Lisa's interest in [REDACTED], and they agreed that I should follow up the possibility of a visit for them.

18 1 83 [REDACTED] I visited [REDACTED] and Lisa at Carolina and informed them that I could take them to [REDACTED] on the 21 January. This was great news for [REDACTED] and Lisa, and Carolina staff present agreed that this was O.K. as far as they were concerned. It was therefore arranged that I would pick up [REDACTED] and Lisa on the 21st at 4.15 to go to [REDACTED] for tea.

G.McIntosh.

21 1 83 Carolina House at 4.15. Picked up [REDACTED] and Lisa and took them to [REDACTED]. We arrived at the school just before tea was about to start and [REDACTED] and Lisa, after being introduced to the other kids by [REDACTED] and to the staff, sat down at the table with [REDACTED] and a member of [REDACTED] staff. Both [REDACTED] and Lisa seemed more interested in their surroundings and the staff members than they did in [REDACTED]. After the meal [REDACTED] got up and went and played pool and almost totally ignored [REDACTED] and Lisa. For their part [REDACTED] and Lisa played indoor skittals with [REDACTED] a member of Balgowan staff, whilst I observed the interaction. [REDACTED] did come back to speaking to [REDACTED] and Lisa, but his interest in them seemed to wane as time went on, and he became rather 'pushy' and aggressive towards [REDACTED]

26 1 83 Evening Visit to [REDACTED] and Lisa at Carolina House. I discussed with staff on duty the visit that [REDACTED] and Lisa had to [REDACTED]. I was informed that they had not talked very much to the other children or to staff about their visit to [REDACTED]. I spoke to [REDACTED] and Lisa after this and asked them how they had felt about their visit to [REDACTED]. Both said that they had enjoyed it, but did not ask about a further visit.

I spoke to Lisa briefly about the history of my involvement with the case, but told her that I had more information in the files back at the office. I said that at some time in the future I would attempt to either do a written family history with [REDACTED] and Lisa or do it verbally, and the children said that they would like this.

LATER. Evening visit to [REDACTED] and Lisa at Carolina House. I spoke to them about the family history that we had talked about previously and told them that I was waiting for some information to come from another social worker about how to do this. The children seemed to understand what I was saying to them and were obviously still quite keen on the idea generally. During my discussion with the children the issue of parental rights arose and [REDACTED] and Lisa asked me what parental rights were. I reminded both children of our discussion before the Christmas holidays and went over again with them basically what the parental rights issue meant. Unfortunately the concept of parental rights is rather too adult for [REDACTED] and Lisa to understand at this stage in their lives.

I am sure the Lisa was also concerned about this but she said less on the subject.	G.McIntosh.
30 6 83	Returned for another visit to Carolina House, mainly to see if [REDACTED] and Lisa were showing any reaction to the situation at Carolina. I found both children to be quite happy and showing no severe reaction to the Carolina news at all. Although they were both still concerned about it. I told Lisa that I would be willing to do this but asked if she was expecting her dad to visit at some time this weekend. Lisa was sure that her dad would come down on Saturday I said that she might like to keep her presents for going to her granny's with her dad. I said that I would speak to Lisa about this later, if the staff didn't mind and I was told to go ahead.

[REDACTED]. I then spoke to Lisa about the stolen batteries and she said that she did not know that they were stolen, and that [REDACTED] had just asked her to keep them for her. I said that this was rather a silly thing to do as I discovered that the amount of batteries was in the region of six to seven dozen. Before leaving Carolina House, [REDACTED] told me that both [REDACTED] and Lisa had been asking about fostering in a positive way, and that they were asking why this was taking so long. [REDACTED] told me that she had explained to them that the fostering matter had not been forgotten about and indeed we would be speaking about it quite soon. I told [REDACTED] that in a way I was pleased to hear that [REDACTED] and Lisa were asking about it, although it was unfortunate the time scale involved since we had first discussed this with them, although this had been caused by the delay in the parental rights appeal. [REDACTED] told me that the children had said that they wanted to stay in Dundee so that they could see their father and the rest of the family. This had already been spoken about with [REDACTED] and Lisa sometime ago, and they had possibly forgotten about this.

Saw [REDACTED] and Lisa at Carolina House. I was informed by staff that Lisa along with some other children from the Scott House had stolen some souvenirs on a trip to Edinburgh zoo. I spoke to Lisa about this and she admitted that she had pinched a small keyring.

05.07.93 Visit to Lisa at Carolina House	Lisa did not get on Nursery Nurse course. She is considering applying to CSV. Told her to think of this carefully as she is likely to be sent out of Dundee and would therefore have to give up tenancy. She is also asking for tenancy to be signed over to herself. She will therefore have to claim a community care grant. We discussed what support Lisa might need from the Department. Lisa did not feel the need to have a Social Worker as she gets support and advice from Carolina and can continue to do so.
	As she is not going on course she does not require financial support under S24. although she may try again next year. She may also need help in the future with housing if she does go away with CSV and return to Dundee at some point. However Lisa knows she can come back in the future up to her 21 Birthday and receive help under S24 having been in care and subject to parental rights.
