Dear Sir or Madam,

Subject access request Ref. 100174

I refer to your request made April 27th, 2026

Please find attached, along with this cover letter, all documents you have requested and are entitled to as part of your Subject Access Request.

You may see dark lines/redactions throughout the documents; this is due to various exemptions being applied to information you are not entitled to:

- Third party information

Please note that some information within the enclosed documents has been redacted (blacked out). This has been done in accordance with data protection legislation, which permits organisations to withhold certain information where appropriate. The main reasons for redaction are outlined below:

1. Third-Party Personal Data

Under Article 15(4) UK GDPR, the right of access must not adversely affect the rights and freedoms of others.

Therefore, personal data relating to other individuals (e.g., staff members, family members, or third parties) has been redacted unless:

- Consent was obtained, or

It was reasonable to disclose without consent

2. Confidential Information

Some information has been withheld where it constitutes confidential information, including:

- Internal communications

Professional opinions provided in confidence

This is permitted under Schedule 2, Part 3 of the Data Protection Act 2018, where disclosure may breach confidentiality obligations.
