Providing your statement of abuse

In Part 1, you will have provided information about any relevant care settings you were abused in.

In Part 3, you need to provide a statement about your abuse. You can choose how you want to provide your statement. You can complete Q1, Q2, Q3 and Q4. Or you can:

- submit a previous statement (for example, a copy of a statement given to the police)
- write your statement in another format that is better suited to you

How to complete this section

You may have been abused in one relevant care setting, or in several different ones.

For this part of the application form, please provide a statement about each care setting you were abused in.

For example, if you were abused in 3 relevant care settings, please provide 3 statements.

You can do this in any order that makes sense to you.

There are pages for 4 care settings included in this form. If you need more copies, you can:

- contact a case worker
- make a copy yourself
- print additional pages from mygov.scot/redress

Please remember:

- there are no wrong answers - if Redress Scotland needs more or different information, your case worker will get in touch with you and let you know
- do not worry about your spelling
- use as much or as little space as you need to give your information - you can continue on additional pages if you want to

Q1 | What is the name or location of the relevant care setting you were abused in?

(For example, the name of the care home, or the city or region where you lived in foster care or while boarded out).

Do not worry if you are uncertain about dates or time. Please provide your best estimate.

Q2 | When were you abused?

For example: a single date, an age, or an approximate time or time range.

Q4 | On the next page, please provide as much information as you can about:

- the abuse you experienced while living in this care setting
- what life was like for you during this time
- how the people responsible for your care and welfare failed to carry out that duty (within or beyond your care setting)

You can continue on additional pages if you need to.

Please read page 36 of “Help to apply” to find out more about what information you may want to include.

At Rimbleton House, I was locked alone in a cell at night. A child. Alone. In the dark. I remember lying there, my heart pounding, wondering what I had done to deserve this. Wondering why nobody was coming. Wondering if anybody even cared whether I lived or died. Those hours in that cell didn't just feel long — they felt like abandonment. Like the whole world had forgotten I existed.

And it wasn't just one night. It happened again and again. Night after night, I was treated not like a child who needed love and care, but like something to be contained. Something disposable. Something less than human. At both children's homes, including St David's — places that called themselves homes, places that were supposed to wrap their arms around me and keep me safe — I was destroyed, piece by piece.

I was physically abused. I felt the pain of hands that should have protected me being used against me instead. I cried tears that nobody wiped away. I was mentally abused, worn down day after day until I didn't know who I was anymore, until I believed I was worthless, until the voice in my head stopped being my own and became the voice of everyone who had ever hurt me. And I was sexually abused. The most intimate, most sacred part of me was violated in ways that no human being — let alone a child — should ever have to experience. I had no voice. I had no power. I had nobody to run to.

I was just a child. A child who needed love. A child who needed safety. A child who needed someone to stand up and say — this is wrong, and I will protect you. But nobody came. Nobody stopped it. And I was left to survive it all alone.

Something less than human.

At both children's homes, including St David's — places that called themselves homes, places that were supposed to wrap their arms around me and keep me safe — I was destroyed, piece by piece.

I was physically abused. I felt the pain of hands that should have protected me being used against me instead. I cried tears that nobody wiped away. I was mentally abused, worn down day after day until I didn't know who I was anymore, until I believed I was worthless, until the voice in my head stopped being my own and became the voice of everyone who had ever hurt me. And I was sexually abused. The most intimate, most sacred part of me was violated in ways that no human being — let alone a child — should ever have to experience. I had no voice. I had no power. I had nobody to run to.

I was just a child. A child who needed love. A child who needed safety. A child who needed someone to stand up and say — this is wrong, and I will protect you. But nobody came. Nobody stopped it. And I was left to survive it all alone.

And survive it I did — but at a cost that I am still paying every single day of my life.

I carried those homes with me when I left. I carry them still. The trauma lives inside my body, inside my mind, inside my soul. I suffer from PTSD that ambushes me without warning — a smell, a sound, a shadow — and suddenly I am back there, small and terrified and alone all over again. I live with anxiety that wraps itself around me like a vice, making it hard to breathe, hard to think, hard to feel safe even in my own skin.

I struggle to trust another living soul, because every person who was ever supposed to care for me used that trust as a weapon against me. And my mental health — something I fight for every single day — bears the scars of everything that was done to me in those places.

I did not choose this. I did not deserve this. I was a child, and I deserved to be loved, and protected, and cherished. What happened to me was wrong. It was cruel. And the pain of it has never, ever gone away.

I am still here. I am still standing. But I want the world to know what was done to me — because I will not be silent, and I will not be forgotten, and what happened to that child in the dark matters. It has always mattered.
